LABORATORY CAPABILITIES (R&D)

As a leader and innovator in Liquid Contract Manufacturing for the last decade, Wasatch

Product Development prevents problems and improves processes by analyzing statistical data and trends. By recommending action where needed, we are solving problems before they even happen. These benchmarks allow us to maintain and improve strict production parameters.

Wasatch Product Development stays ahead of the curve by training on the latest lab service technology through quarterly equipment supplier sponsored training events. We offer the added assurance of on-site testing and monitoring of our water systems. Also, any Wasatch employee who comes in contact with your product has received the appropriate and documented training through our hands on, personal training program; no computers necessary when we can do live training.
